

Short CV for A/Prof Wang De Yun

A/Prof Wang De Yun is currently Research Associate Professor (Tenure) and Director of Research, Department of Otolaryngology at the National University of Singapore. He completed his medical education and ENT training in China, and was a practicing ENT surgeon until his further study in Belgium in 1989. He obtained his Master Degree in Medical and Pharmaceutical Research (1991) and PhD Degree in Medical Sciences (1995) in the Free University Brussels (Belgium). He was thereafter appointed Director of Rhinology and Clinical Immunology Research at the Department of Otorhinolaryngology, University of Ghent, Belgium from 1996-1997. He started as Research Scientist at the Department of Otolaryngology, National University of Singapore in 1997.

A/Prof Wang has published over a hundred papers in the prestigious medical journals and books, and has been invited to give more than 250 lectures in the scientific meetings worldwide. He is a member of the editorial boards of eleven allergy, ENT and medical journals and member of expert committee and writing group for several international and European guidelines and consensus report in allergic rhinitis, e.g., European White Paper in Allergy, European Position Paper in Treatment of Allergic Rhinitis, International Consensus Report on Allergic Rhinitis in Childhood, WHO Initiative: Allergic Rhinitis and its Impact on Asthma (ARIA) (both the 2001 and 2008 Update), European Position Paper on Rhinosinusitis and Nasal Polyps (EPOS, Revision 2007). He received the Sam Sanders Basic Science Award given by the American Academy Otolaryngic Allergy (AAOA) in 2003. He is currently the Vice President of the Beijing Ear Nose and Throat College since 2004, and visiting professor of three top medical universities in China. He is also the Coordinator for Asia-Oceania for the Global Allergy and Asthma European Network (GA<sup>2</sup>LEN).